

Are you passionate about shaping the future of the legal profession? Would you like to have your voice heard when it comes to Scots law and legal practice?

We are looking for dedicated individuals to join our various committees. Whether you're an academic, a solicitor, have certain expertise in a specific field outside law, or are retired and looking for something new, there are committee opportunities for everyone!

About the role:

As a Convener and/or committee member, generally you will:

- Collaborate with a diverse group of professionals
- Provide valuable input and perspectives
- Help shape policies, initiatives, and/or help deliver different aspects of the regulatory framework that benefit the legal community and the public

Requirements and time commitment vary depending on the committee and role. This information can be found in the relevant committee advert which can be found on the website.

About the candidates:

We are seeking solicitors and non-solicitor/lay individuals at all stages of their careers who can bring their skills and experience from different backgrounds, with interest in the legal profession and its impact on society.

If you are an enthusiastic and dedicated individual with an appreciation and interest in the subject matter, why not consider applying? You could contribute to areas like client protection, regulation and get involved in policy and law reform.

Why volunteer with us?

- Develop skills and expertise, build connections and make an impact
- CPD training and networking events
- Share experiences
